Numb. 99.

Wednesday, August 12. 1702.

From the Leyden Gazette, Dated Aug. 10.

Liege, Aug. 4.

PRince Tserclaes of Tilly having receiv'd Orders by an Expreſs, to march out of this place with 4 or 5000 Men, to joyn the Duke of Burgundy's Army on the Demer, and being apprehenſive that a Detachment from the Garriſon of Maſtricht might attempt, in his Abſence, to ſeize the great Magazines, which the French have laid up here; he call'd the Magiſtrates together, before he went away, and recommended to them very earneſtly, the keeping a ſtrict Guard at the Gates of the Town, and taking care of the Magazines, telling them they ſhould be answerable for them: And at the ſame time a Company of Burghers that are the moſt zealous for the French, were poſted at the Gates, by the Privy-Council of the Elector of Cologne. But the Magiſtrates after mature Deliberation, declar'd, That at this juncture, while our two Cittadels are garriſon'd by French Soldiers, they could not take charge of the City Gates, without drawing upon themſelves the Odium of their Neighbours, and ruining the City; in ſhort, that they would meddle on neither ſide. There remain 4 Battalions in each of the Cittadels, commanded by Monſieur de Violene, who ſends a Party every Day to guard the Gates of the City, upon the reſuſal of our Magiſtrates to let the Burghers take that charge upon them. Many People are glad of the departure of Prince Tſerclaes of Tilly, in hopes of a new turn of Affairs: And ſeveral that were devoted to the Service of France begin to retire with their beſt Effects to places of Security, among them the Baron de Simeoni, Miniſter of State to our Elector, with two or three Canons of our Cathedral, and ſome Lawyers.

Paris, Aug. 4. 'Tis ſaid the King will raiſe 30000 Men next Winter, beſides the neceſſary Recruits for the Troops which he has already.

Venice, July 26. The Emperor (as 'tis reported) will give out Commiſſions for levying 30000 Men in his Hereditary Countries, which will be maintain'd by the ſaid Countries.

Naples, July 28. The Troops that are brought hither from Provence from time to time, are ſent into the Frontier-Towns to reinforce the Garriſons. We have receiv'd from Toulon 1000 Quintals of Powder. The Eccleſiaſticks of this City having abſolutely reſuſ'd to contribute towards the Free Gift of 400000 Ducats, which was demanded for the Service of the King of Spain, a Tax is laid upon our Windows, which cannot produce more than 700 Ducats; and ſo great is the Poverty of the Inhabitants in general, through the interruption of Commerce, and the quartering of ſo many Troops as are in Garriſon here, that it will be very difficult to find ways of ſupplying the Deficiency. The number of the Malecontents that are in Arms in the Abruzzo encreaſes daily, and they exact heavy Contributions on the Lands of thoſe Gentlemen that are in the Intereſt of the King of Spain.

Rome, July 22. In the laſt Audience which Cardinal Grimani had of the Pope, he complain'd to him of the Cardinal Legate of Ferrara, a great promoter of the French Intereſt; and declar'd, That if Satisfaction were not ſpeedily given for ſome Damage which the Imperial Army had ſuſtain'd by his Means, Prince Eugene would do himſelf Juſtice. On the other ſide, the Pope charg'd Cardinal Grimani to write to Prince Eugene, to reſtore the Barks laden with Corn and Oyl belonging to ſome Merchants of Ferrara, which the Imperialiſts had ſeiz'd under pretence that thoſe Proviſions were carrying to the Army of the two Crowns. Cardinal Grimani would not appear in the laſt Conſiſtory, nor let Tapeſtry be hung out of the Windows of his Palace when Cardinal Barberini made his Entry. The Abbot Scarlati, the Elector of Bavaria's Agent, having ſpoken diſreſpectfully of the Emperor, Count Lamberg, the Imperial Embaſſador, has forbid him his Palace: And he has done the ſame to the Agents of the Duke of Tuscany, and of the Cardinal de Medicis, for that their Maſters ſeem to be too well affected to the United Crowns of France and Spain. He likewiſe exclaims againſt the Pope's permitting Prince Vahini to appear publickly in Rome, who, not long ago was baniſh'd out of it. It has been propos'd in a Congregation of Cardinals to remove the Treſure of Loretto to the Caſtle of St. Angelo; and another Congregation has been held about reforming the Calendar.

On Saturday laſt, Her Maſteſty's Ship the Penzance, arriv'd in this Bay from High-Lake, with about 30 Merchant-Ships from Cheſter and Liverpoole, ſome bound for this Port, and others to the Southward. Yeſterday arriv'd here a ſmall Sloop from France, belonging to one Legly a Papiſt Merchant of this Town, which brought over five Iriſh Papiſts Paſſengers; the Ship is ſeiz'd, and the Maſter with the Ship's Crew and Paſſengers committed to Priſon.
